

Telford Park All Abilities Sculpture Trail

Take a moment to slow down and enjoy the All Abilities Sculpture Trail at Telford Park in Darley, Bacchus Marsh. This 1.8km trail winds gently up the slope of the park, leading to the stunning Indigenous sculpture Binak Biik also known as Basket Country.

Created by Aunty Kim Wandin and Chris Joy, Binak Biik invites tactile exploration through woven baskets, native plants, and basalt rocks that reflect the unique geology of the Western Plains.

 The trail loops around the park with plenty of spots to sit, relax, and take in the surroundings. Whether you're up for a short stroll or a longer walk, there are options to suit your pace.

 At the centre of the trail is a lookout mound where the sculpture is located, a peaceful place to reflect and connect with the landscape.

Accessibility

This trail is designed for everyone including wheelchair users and those using walking aids.

Before you go

- Wear sturdy walking shoes
- Bring drinking water
- Use sun protection

Overview

Location

88 Wittick Street, Darley

Circuit

Approx. 1.2km

Distance

615m to lookout

Elevation Gain

168m to 182m

Difficulty

Grade 1 (easy)

For more tourism information use the QR code to visit:

<https://www.moorabool.vic.gov.au/Services-and-support/For-visitors>

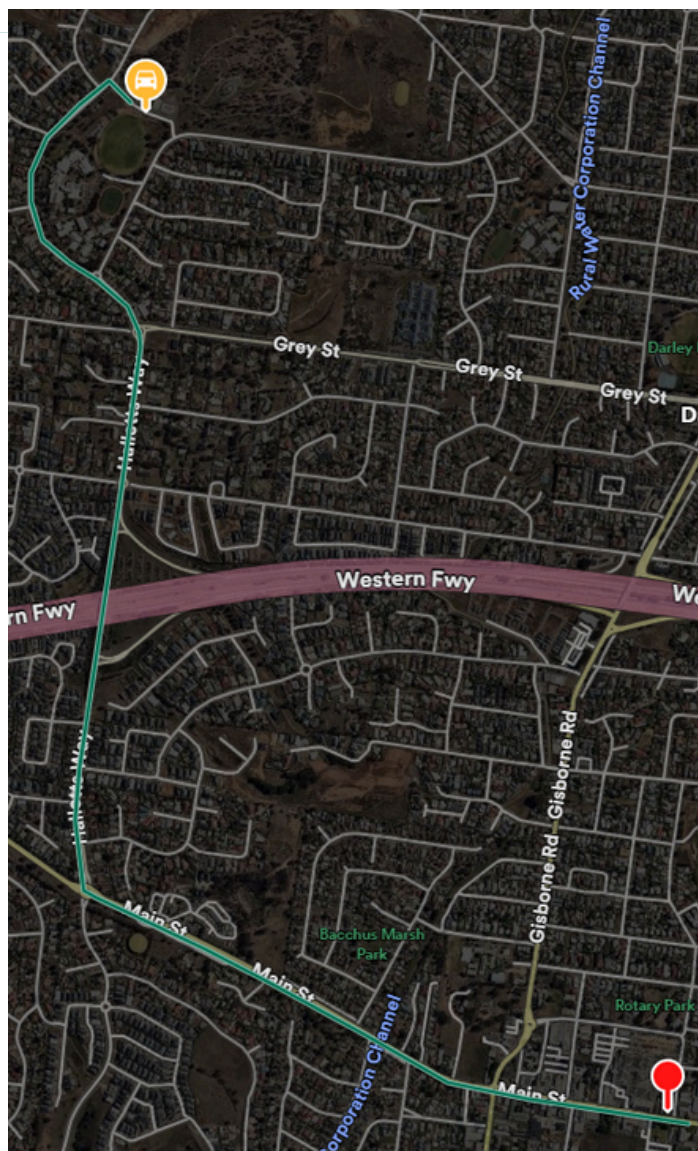

How to get there

Start: Bacchus Marsh Visitor Information Centre, 215 Main Street

End: Telford Park All Abilities Sculpture Trail, 88 Wittick Street, Darley

For more tourism information use the QR code to visit:
<https://www.moorabool.vic.gov.au/Services-and-support/For-visitors>

